The Helpdesk

We provide research and advice to FCDO and HMG staff on violence against women (VAW) and violence against children (VAC). We can advise on VAW and VAC at different stages of the policy and programming cycle, and across sectors and themes

Services offered

We offer a high-quality, tailored response that is flexible to respond to needs.

- Our helpdesk can respond to a range of technical queries through literature reviews, factsheets, mapping of policies, programmes and actors, and rapid technical advice.
- We also offer practice-based knowledge to guide implementation, adapt evidence and advise how to take innovations to scale.
- Our more substantive support includes specialist in-country assignments, guidance materials, accompaniment, and strategic support to central policy teams to provide technical support and build capacity.

Expertise

- The helpdesk is managed by a dedicated team of senior researchers at Social Development Direct on behalf of the What Works: Impact at Scale consortium.
- The helpdesk draws on experts from across the consortium and a pool of over 70 pre-screened independent specialists.
- Our experts combine relevant sectoral and thematic experience to address VAW and VAC in policy and programmes, across different conflict-affected, humanitarian and development contexts.
